THEY may handle the votes,
But we cannot fail,
For truth is mighty
And will prevail.

New corn sells for $2 and $2.25 a bushel at Lexington.

MAUD S. trotted a mile in 2:10 at Lexington on Saturday.

MANY incendiary fires are reported at Cynthiana and that neighborhood. There is much excitement in consequence.

IF Bascom Northcott's head is a little higher and his step prouder it is altogether on account of the new express wagon.

THE members of the Assembly Dancing Club will remember there is to be a hop to-night at their rooms at Riverside. Dancing from 8 o'clock to 1 a. m.

MR. WILLIAM RANEY, an old respected citizen of Chester, died last night. He formerly lived at Lexington and is said to be the oldest Mason in the State.

DOX't forget the social entertainment given by the ladies of the Southern Presbyterian Church to-night, at the residence of Mr. C. W. Darnall. Admission, 25 cents.

Illuminate and Decorate.

Our citizens are requested to illuminate and decorate their business and dwelling houses on Friday night, especially along the line of march.

JAMES JONES, colored, charged with petit larceny, was arraigned before Judge Coons, on Monday, and pleading guilty was sentenced to thirty days hard labor in the county jail.

THE election excitement in Maysville has entirely subsided and men of both parties are patiently awaiting the announcement of the official count. We are glad to say the "hot-heads" are few and far between.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE remarked in a speech at Lexington on Saturday "the election of Cleveland was a triumph for both Democrats and Republicans, but it would be hard to convince a revenue officer of this fact."

DOC SMALL, colored, charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon, was adjudged guilty by Judge Coons on Monday and sentenced to ten days imprisonment and fined $25. The fine and costs were not paid and he was sent to jail at hard labor.

ON Saturday, while O. D. Curry, of Winchester, was removing stumps by blasting, on the farm of Joseph Hendrick, near Flemingsburg, the wind blew a lighted match into a box containing explosive material, which discharged it injuring him very severely.

Ratification Meeting.

At a meeting of the citizens of Maysville and Mason County, on Monday afternoon, it was decided that we have a grand torchlight procession on Friday night, November 14th, to ratify the election of Cleveland and Hendricks. All Democrats in Kentucky and Ohio are cordially invited to be present and will be heartily welcomed.

THE committee on finance earnestly request all good Democrats to contribute something to pay the expenses of the ratification meeting. The committee will be at great expense for torches, fireworks, transparencies, bonfires, &c., &c., and must have plenty of money to make the occasion a grand success. Contributions will be received at the drug stores of Major Chenoweth and J. James Wood, Esq. JAMES H. HALL, Jr., Ch'm'n.

ASTRONOMICAL experts are anticipating an extraordinary meteoric display on the nights of the 11th, 12th and 13th of November. On those days the earth will revolve through the "meteor zone," and the skies will be filled with "falling stars," as is annually the case about that time in the month of November. This year, however, there is expected to occur a display which has been paralleled but once within the experience of men now living, and that nearly a half century ago. The reason for this exceptional exhibition of celestial pyrotechnics is attributed to the fact of the capture of a wandering comet by the planet Uranus, and the so-called meteors are said to be the particles of "cosmic dust" which followed in the comet's train. It is from the constellation Leo that the falling stars will seem to come, and watchers should direct their observations to that point in heavens. How many will fall or where they will alight is not predicted but it is possible that Munchausen story of the immense scrotle that fell in Texas and covered an acre of ground may be realized.

FIRE AT MILLERSBURG.

Miller's Block Totally Destroyed—Loss About $50,000.

During the Democratic demonstration at Millersburg, last night, about ten o'clock a fire broke out in Smedley & Butler's store, which spread rapidly and before it could be stayed destroyed all the business houses on Miller square. The following buildings were burned: Smedley & Butler's store, Boulden & Current's, Victor & Browning's, W. H. Burdine's, Frank Adair's drug store and an undertaking establishment. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is supposed to be about $50,000.

PERSONALS.

Colonel Robert W. Scott died at Frankfort on Sunday.

Mr. Zack Goldenburg, ex-Mayor of Vanceburg, and formerly of this city, is here to-day to rejoice with his old friends over the election of Cleveland and Hendricks. Mr. Goldenburg, who is now in his eighty-fifth year, is an old time Democrat and has never wavered in his faith.

THE NEWS FROM LONDON

Expected Compromise on the Franchise Bill.

Election Results—Chamberlain's Reverses—The O'Donnell Episode—Tribute to Fawcett—Our Election—Mary Anderson's Failure, etc.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Lord Northbrook's financial proposals in regard to Egypt are believed in the City to include payment in full of interest to bondholders, reduction of interest on English Suez Canal shares, and ten years of English occupation, England paying the cost of the garrison. This means that England is to find the money with which to meet the deficit, Lord Northbrook holding it impossible to increase taxation in Egypt. The proposals encounter the strongest opposition in the Cabinet, and there are rumors of a crisis and possible split in the Cabinet. Lord Northbrook resigning if his scheme is rejected, and his opponents threatening to resign if it is adopted.

The reported fall of Khartoum on Monday is now known to have been an elaborate fabrication of French origin. The Times' story that the Khedive had telegraphed to the Queen and the Prince of Wales confirming the report, is believed to have proceeded from a news agency at Cairo. It was incautiously accepted here without inquiry, and contradicted the same day.

THE FRANCHISE.

The second reading of the Franchise Bill was carried without a division. The unexpectedly large majority against Lord Randolph Churchill's amendment, on which the decisive vote was taken, was due to the fact that Mr. Parnell's followers, at the last moment, changed their tactics and voted for the bill in obedience to warnings from Ireland that the popular desire for enfranchisement was too strong to be safely resisted. Mr. Healy's cynical defense in the Fortnightly Review of his policy in opposing the bill serves only to convict himself and his colleagues of an intention to defeat the Franchise if possible.

The present majority of 140 for the bill—ten larger than before—would be a good weapon to use against the Peers, but unluckily it follows a debate of two nights filled with the spirit of compromise. Lord Hartington wound up the discussion with an appeal to the opposition to say what they really wanted, intimating that the Ministry were ready to make any possible concessions. There was a strong feeling among the Radicals that a compromise was imminent, involving a practical surrender of the Ministry to Lord Salisbury, and the conviction of a coming agreement was so strong in the House of Commons itself that Mr. Goheen, amid marks of general assent, described the debate. Lord Randolph Churchill, who spoke after consultation with the front Opposition bench and amid cheers from the whole Tory party, declared that Mr. Gladstone's magnanimous speech contained all the elements of a compromise. Nobody pretends to know precisely what form the agreement will take, nor what will content Lord Salisbury, whose pretensions are likely to increase as the disposition of the Ministers to make a bargain becomes more evident. Lord Salisbury's friends continue to insist that he, himself, would prefer to fight the matter out and risk even dissolution or the question of "reforming" the Upper House.

ELECTION RESULTS.

The chief political incidents of the week outside the House were the Liberal success at Scarborough, where a certain seat was held by an increased majority, and—quite eclipsed that—the tremendous Tory triumph in South Warwickshire, the Liberals losing the late Hon. Gilbert H. C. Leigh's seat by 1,176 majority.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S REVERSES.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new building of the National Liberal Club also took place. Mr. Gladstone, Lord Granville, Lord Derby, Mr. Chamberlain and other Liberal leaders speaking. Mr. Chamberlain seized the occasion for a fresh attack upon the Lords. It has not, however, been a lucky week for Mr. Chamberlain, who is supposed to have been outvoted in the Cabinet on the question of a compromise on the Franchise, has been beaten in the controversy over the composition of the Merchant Shipping Commission, and is publicly accused this morning in the Times by Professor Tyndall with compelling his (Tyndall's) resignation from the Lighthouse Board by arrogance and misrepresentation.

THE O'DONNELL EPISODE.

The suspension on Wednesday of Mr. Frank O'Donnell, the Home Rule member for Dungarvan, excites the furious protest of the Irish papers against the Speaker's "tyranny," out the effect of the protest is rather spoiled by Mr. O'Donnell's admission that he intended to get himself expelled.

TRIBUTES TO MR. FAWCETT.

The death of Mr. Henry Fawcett, Postmaster General, is lamented as a public calamity by everybody in public life and every journal, without distinction of party. Friends and opponents alike bear testimony to his apathy, uprightness, cheerful heroism under physical disaster, loyalty to conviction regardless of party, services to India, success as Postmaster General, and popularity in the House of Commons which at first he wore. The respect and admiration of all classes from the Queen downward are expressed in every possible way. His funeral will take place on Monday, near Cambridge. Mr. Adstone, who goes to The Durians over Sunday, is expected to be present. The leading Continental papers join in tributes to Mr. Fawcett's memory.

NEXT IN THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.
The Times, Standard and Daily News published long dispatches about the Presidential election in the United States. The Times were accurate and impartial, but the Standard's and News' consisted largely of repetitions of the most reckless calumnies of the Cleveland organs against their opponents. It is long since anything appeared in Europe better calculated to discredit America than these bitter railings of American correspondents. The English papers discussed the subject repeatedly during the week and were doubtful until yesterday whether or not Mr. Cleveland was elected; but they now had her success as a triumph of morality and insist on a fulfillment of the pledges of the Democrats to a pure administration and the removal of abuses. The Times nominates Senator Bayard for Secretary of State, and hopes Mr. Cleveland will discard Western financiers. The Paid Mail Gazette regards the firmness of voices of American boys and such a crisis as a striking illustration of the stability of Democratic institutions.

The English people generally appeared to take slight interest in the subject until the contest became close and the reports conflicting. The present assurance of Mr. Cleveland's election undoubtedly fills the English mind with satisfaction. The first question most Englishmen ask is whether Mr. Lowell is likely to remain here as Minister.

THEATRICAL TOPICS.

Miss Mary Anderson's "Juliet" has been copiously criticized; faintly praised for good looks and pretty posing, but condemned as utterly wanting in passion, as melodramatic, as often vulgar and violent where she should be tragic, and her delivery of the verse ignorant. In short, Miss Anderson cannot act "Juliet." The play is brilliantly dressed and mounted, and the houses are crowded.

Mr. Bronson Howard's "Young Mrs. Winthrop," produced at the Court Theater on Thursday, is pronounced weak in plot but clever in dialogue. It is fairly successful, thanks largely to the brilliant acting of Mrs. John Wood.

DRAMA IN REAL LIFE.

A Scene at a Theatre Not Down on the Bill.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Before the rising of the curtain at the Chicago museum last night Mr. R. G. Austin, manager of the Australian Novelty Company, said to Mr. C. H. Goodwin, manager of the museum:

"Give me my money or you will have no show to-night."

Mr. Goodwin at once ushered into the dressing rooms the members of Keenels Rip Van Winkle Company and it was announced that they would give a performance. The Australian company was billed and the audience called for the acrobatic entertainment. Mr. Austin then brought out his entire company, numbering thirty-six, on the stage. An attempt was made to put them off the stage, and they resisted. The police were notified, and a dozen officers soon arrived. Mr. Goodwin demanded that the members of the Australian Company be arrested, but the police had no power in the matter, and Mr. Austin retained possession of the stage. The audience finally dispersed, the admission fee being returned at the door. Mr. Goodwin said the trouble arose through the Australian Company giving two performances at the Olympic Theater Sunday of last week in violation of its contract with him. He said that he got out an injunction restraining them from giving these performances, but that Mr. Austin paid no attention to it. He declares that an agreement was made late Sunday to deduct $150 from Mr. Austin's salary and that he agreed to settle on this basis last night. Mr. Austin expects to get justice in the courts and Mr. Goodwin expects to get the same.

POLYGAMIST SENTENCED.

Beginning to Look as if Polygamy is to be Punished.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 11.—Joseph H. Evans, convicted last week of polygamy, was Saturday sentenced to three years and a half in the Utah Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $250. He was remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal pending appeal. Andrew Peterson, under indictment for illegal voting, being a polygamist, was tried last Saturday and the jury disagreed. Saturday the United States Attorney nolleed the case, he being satisfied that polygamy had been abandoned.

End of a Scandal.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 11.—The resignation of Dr. Lemuel Moss as President of the Indiana State University ends the disgraceful scandal that has been the talk of the town for a week. The young lady instructor has also resigned. Both resignations were accepted. Dr. E. E. Balentine, of this city, acts as President of the institution temporarily. A permanent officer will be elected in a short time. The entire affair is much regretted, but the prompt action of the Board relieves the University of any damage that might have been done.
